STRONG TOWERS | NEWS RELEASE

Daniel Torres Jr. Attends Commonwealth 2026 National Conference, Emphasizing Trust, Relationships, and Generational Wealth

Strong Towers founder shares insights on financial planning, personal growth, and his vision for helping families build a stronger financial future.

---

OMAHA, NE — November 2026 — Daniel Torres Jr., founder of Strong Towers, LLC, recently attended the Commonwealth 2026 National Conference, where financial professionals and industry leaders gathered to exchange ideas, explore emerging trends, and discuss the evolving needs of individuals and families navigating their financial futures.

For Torres, the experience reinforced a belief that has guided his professional journey: meaningful success begins with understanding people, building trust, and creating opportunities for others.

> “Trust and relationships are the keys to being a good financial planner. You have to know what your clients’ needs are and how they respond to money,” Torres shared.

The Future of Financial Planning: Technology, Trust, and Personalization

Throughout the conference, Torres gained valuable perspectives on the changing financial landscape, including the growing influence of artificial intelligence, global economic developments, and the importance of adapting financial strategies to individual circumstances.

He emphasized that effective financial planning requires more than technical knowledge. It demands genuine relationships, open communication, and a willingness to understand each person’s unique goals and challenges.

> “The days of one-size-fits-all planning are over. If you care about the people who trust you with their money, you will use all the resources available to help them come up with a plan that makes sense for their life,” Torres said.

A Vision for First-Generation Wealth

One of the most meaningful takeaways from the conference was the inspiration to pursue a long-term personal goal: helping families who have never had the opportunity to build generational wealth.

Torres hopes to eventually develop a free financial education initiative for families seeking to become the first generation in their family to establish lasting financial stability. His vision extends beyond money to giving people the knowledge, confidence, and hope to create a different future for themselves and their children.

> “I also learned that a future goal of mine is to be able to provide a free service to families who are wanting to build first-generational wealth. I’d like to grow large enough to provide hope to those who want to be the catalyst to set their family up for financial success,” Torres shared.

That aspiration reflects the principle at the heart of his work and his life: service to others.

“My passion is people. Helping people. That’s it,” Torres said.

Continuing to Learn, Lead, and Serve

The conference also underscored the importance of learning from professionals across generations, remaining adaptable in uncertain times, and recognizing that real progress begins with listening. For Torres, these lessons extend beyond financial planning into leadership, mentorship, and the work he hopes to do through Strong Towers, LLC.

As he continues building Strong Towers, Torres remains committed to applying what he learns to help others overcome obstacles, recognize opportunities, and pursue meaningful growth.

About Daniel Torres Jr. and Strong Towers, LLC

Daniel Torres Jr. is the founder of Strong Towers, LLC, an Omaha, Nebraska-based company rooted in leadership, operational experience, and a people-first approach to growth. Drawing on his background in law enforcement, project management, and business operations, Torres is developing a broader vision for Strong Towers centered on financial education, stronger communities, and opportunities for first-generation wealth building. Future initiatives are intended to help families gain the knowledge and confidence to pursue lasting financial stability.

Media Contact

Strong Towers, LLC | Omaha, Nebraska

strongtowers25@gmail.com | https://strongtowers.blog